fluid, is known to me alone. It is mine to give to whom I will and my works go before me. Doubt not! I ask no man to believe me, but I give to every weak man free this priceless boon and it restores him instantly to the strength and powerful vigor of youth. With this marvelous, mysterious compound, which I have discovered only after a lifetime devoted to search through all the realms of science and the archives of the ancients, it is possible for every weak man to have for his own the glorious manly power, the untiring vigor and the lorg life of the patriarchs of Bible times. With this mysterious compound no weak man will ever again be troubled with impotency, vital losses, nigasily emissions, spermatorrhea, variloccle, prematurity, defective power or lack of vital energy.

Send me no money. It is my duty, guided by ar Unseen Hand—it is my mission on earth—my life work—to lift up the fallen, heal the weak and cure the mained or indeveloped; and to every man winch has loss his vital power or finds it waning, I send my mersage of love and peace and health. I can save him and I will save him and restore him to many years of happiness and the imputuous vitality and visorous manhood of perfect health and youth.

Remember, it matters not how you lost your manhood, or when you lost it. It matters not what doctors or senders say. This is needinary drug or stimulating method of treatment, but it is the vital spark of life liself, and it matters not how many remedies and doctors have failed. I have repeacedly and instantly renewed the youth of stay, the sparkling vitality of youth. My prevate address is Dr. C. Sargem Ferris, 143 Strawn building, Cleveland, Ohio, and I urge every weak man to come to me, for I will give him undying strength, the supreme joy and happiness of perfect marliness, My wondrous discovery has startled the world by its miraculous effects, yet i the world by its miraculous effects, yet I sack not fame nor glovy. It suffices me if I may be the humole instrument of Nature's greatest power in bringing all men that the enjoyment of their true manifices, and I do it free. In the time allotted to me acre or earth I shall do all that in my power less to give my fellow-men the benefit of this great secret, and my reward shall be be this great secret, and my reward shall be in the knowledge that I have done anto others as I would that others should do not one Notable Career of Chief Justice Walter Clark of the North Carolina Supreme Court-His Connection With Prominent Ante-Bellum Families of the South.

WRITTEN FOR THE SUNDAY REPUBLIC William J. Bryan's declaration in Bieliop of Manila, will probably be named Carolina Supreme Count for the Democratic nomination for President attracts attention to an interesting if little known character. "Who," has been the almost universal ques-tion. "is Chief Justice Clark?" There is Father J. J. O'Brien of St. Sail rate of Church, Father P. W. Fallon of Name Church, Father D. S. Phelan le Lady of Mount Carmel Church, and le life for many years. He has been a leading figure in the political, litermuch to tell of him. In his own State at marriage he has a very large connection with the leading ante-bellum familles in this State. St. Ericget's Church.

Pether O'Brien was formerly assistant ary, even religious life of his State. He has under Father Hardy, and is well known served in all nearly nineteen years continuously as Judge, first on the Superior and later on the Supreme Court bench. Justice of Chief Justice Walter Clark of the North | Clark is a son of General David Clark, who was a great planter in the Roanoke section of North Carolina, and a lineal descendant of a brother of Governor Gabriel Johnston, the most prominent of North Carolina's Colonial Governors. Both personally and by

A NOTEWORTHY CAREER. The newest presidential possibility is in his fifty-seventh year. He was born in Halifax County. South Carolina. He entered the Confederate service when the war broke out, though only 14 years of age, and was soon made Adjutant of the regiment commanded by Matt W. Ransom in the army of Northern Virginia. Later, in the third year of the war, he entered the senior class of the University of North Carolina and graduated in June, 1864, with the highest honors, Judge Van Wyck of New York being a classmate. On the next day he was elected Major of a baitalion, and soon afterward became Lieutenant Colonel of the Seventeenth Regiment, serving under Joseph E. Johnston, and finally surrendered at Greensboro, in May, 1865. As soon as the war ended he decided to study law, and did so at the State University, at the Columbian University and in New York, receiving his license in 1867. Six years later he took up his home in Raleigh and became a successful lawyer. In 1885 he was appointed a Superior Court Judge, and was appointed a Justice of the Supreme Court, and the next year led the ticket in an election for that position. In 1894 he received a unanimous re-election upon nomination by the Democratic Convention and indorsement by the Republicans and Populists.

In July last he was nominated for Chief Justice by the Democratic Convention and indorsement by the Republicans and Populists.

In July last he was nominated for Chief Justice by the Democratic Convention and indorsement by the Republicans and Populists.

In July last he was nominated for Chief Justice will perhaps beet illustrate Justice Clark's political reputation. He said: "Walter Clark is a Democrat. In county, State and nation he has ever stood by the principles and the traditions of the party in word, in act, in hope and in heart. Its combined wisdom and patriotism have never yet written a platform too dangerous to claim his aligiance. Its combined choice and indegment have never yet put forward a candidate too had to command his support. He has never yet helped by act or hoped in heart the defeat of a Democratic nomince and then assumed the r ifax County, South Carolina. He entered the Confederate service when the LITERARY ACTIVITIES. Chief Justice Clark is one of the hardest workers in North Carolina, and besides his abors as lawyer and Judge he has found time to contribute frequently to the American Law Review, the Magazine of American History, Harper's, the Arena, the North can History, Harper's, the Arena, the North American Review and others. He visited Mexico during the campaign of 1886 to investigate the money question in that country. He is a man of strong convictions and has strongly advocated Government ownership of telegraphs and Government control of railways. He has besides found time in his busy life to translate Constant's private memoirs of Napoleon. The following extract in his own handwriting from the preface to this translation illustrates both his literary style and his political tenden-

his literary style and his political tendencies:

"Notwithstanding its excesses and its folities, the French Revolution will ever have an absorbing interest for mankind, because it began as a struggle for the advancement of the cause of manhood, liberty and equal rights. It was a terribly earnest movement, and after the lapse of a century interest continues unabated in the great soldier who restored order and organized and preserved the new ideas by means of his civic code and a firm Government."

Judge Clark has also edited five volumes containing the history of all the North Carolina regiments in the Confederate service. These the State has published, and so admirably has the work been done that the Legislature thanked him by a special resolution. The following is a characteristic passage from his preface to these regimental histories:

"These dead have not died in vain. The cause of Southern independence, for which they fell, has passed forever from among men. Not an advocate remains. But as long as the patient endurance of hardship and fatigue and danger in the discharge of duty shall touch us, as long as the sacrifice of life for the good of one's country shall seem noble and grand, so long shall the memory of the deeds recorded in the plain, sober narratives in these volumes, written by men whose gallantry is surpassed only by their modesty, and who were more eager to handle the sword than to use the pen, be preserved and cherished by their countrymen."

And again:

"The Volumest of those who were the preserved and cherished by their countrymen.

And again:

"The youngest of those who were the gray have crossed the crest of the narrow ridge that divides two great oceans, and already, like Balbon, they have descried from the Western slope the wide waste of waters which reaches beyond the sunset. Not many yearcashall passaere the last of those who followed the fortunes of Lee and Jackson, of Johnston and Forrest, shall have set sail on that shoreless sea, and the last footfall of the tread of the old Confederate regiments whose march shook a continent shall be echoing in eternity."

Among the notable ligerary works of Justice Clark is the editing of a score of volumes of State records, the writing of several volumes on law, valuable contributions to the Cyclopaedia of Law, and the printing, with annotations, of thirty-two volumes of North Carolina State Supreme Court reports. He has made speeches in several States, notably at the meeting of the National Association of Railway Commissioners at Denver and at meetings of State bar associations in Kansas, Tennessee and other States.

Justice Clark is a member of the Methodist Church, and was a delegate to its missioners at Denver and at meetings of State bar associations in Kansas, Tennessee and other States.

Justice Clark is a member of the Methodist Church, and was a delegate to its Ecumenical Council in London in ISB. He made a European tour that year. He is a member of the Federation Commission of the Northern and Southern 2ethodist Church. He has always closely studied politics and was tendered the nomination for Governor seven years ago. The State Democratic Convention the same year Indorsed him for Vice President, while several other States supported him at the Chicago Convention which nominated Bryan.

The Judge's home life is particularly happy. His wife is the only daughter of William A. Graham, who was Secretary of the Navy, United States Senator and Governor of North Carolina. He has two daughters and five sons. His oldest son left Cornell University to join the Second North Carolina Regiment in the war with Spain, and is now president of a cotton mill company. His second son, also a graduate of Cornell, is now part owner and manager of a cotton mill. Chief Justice Clark is himself a farmer and is interested in the cotton mill industry, which is so important in North Carolina. He is a member of the Masonic order. He is a good French and Latin scholar and devotes much of his time to reading. He takes a deep interest in literary and historical work, having been the first president of the State Literary and Historical Society. Historical Society.

MOST UNSEASONABLE JUNE WEATHER IN LONDON ALSO.

SPECIAL BY CABLE TO THE NEW YORK HERALD AND THE ST. LOCIS REPUBLIC. London, June 13 .- (Copyright, 19.2.)-It has required a healthy confidence in the atnanac makers to believe that this week is the middle of June, so unseasonable has been the weather. When it has not been raining hard, it has been blowing a gale, and it has often been doing both simultanebusly, while it has been cold all the time. King Edward last Wednesday was obliged to break an engagement to witness the meat the Ranleigh Club, as it was raining cars and dens. The coaches that turned out were almost empty, and the polo game was declared off.

The next day, though there was no improvement in the weather, the King and Queen paid a visit to London H spital, and were rewarded with a warm welcome from the crowds who admired their pluck.

With Ascot imminent, the outlook is the subject of much anxiety, for this year's meeting was expected to be more than usually brillhant, and, if all accounts be true, the preparations for the display of millinery and gowns were on an extraordinary scale. It makes one shiver to read in the ladies' papers that dresses for the royal inclosure this year are of the filmsest materials and show a general tendency to be cut away in the neck.

BANK STATEMENT GOOD AS EXPECTED

Received on the Floor of New York Stock Exchange With Hearty Applause.

PRICES WENT DOWN SLIGHTLY. | 11hel.

Increase of $4,701,525 in Surplus Reserve and Decrease of $.11-795,100 in Loan Account Shown.

New York, June 12.—The opening this norning was a trifle lower than yesterday's lose, the decline in London appearing to be he reason. Few foreign orders were on the fleor, unsettled political conditions in Servia making the market across the water omewhat timid to-day.

The bank statement was expected to be a good one and the traders had practically ilscounted this yesterday. The heavy liqui lation during the early part of the week was supposed to have had a good effect on the loan account and it was generally conceded that there would be a good decrease.

The early pregnostications of the reserve increase were around $2,000,000. There was particularly good investment buying of Pennsylvania during the morning and much of it is supposed to be taken off the speculative market.

It is reported around the floor that Hocking Valley will shortly be placed in a position where the Lake Shore will stand as guaranter of its dividend in consideration of loser relations between the two roads. Five per cent on the stock is the reported rate of the guaranteed dividend. Renewed reports that Amalgamated Copper would go on a 4-per-cent basis July I were again circulated.

ment showing an increase of $4,791,525 in surplus reserve, with a decrease in the loan account of $11,785,100, there was hearty applause and as usual in the cases where the news is better than expected, the prices sagged off. Traders seemed to have discounted its good points and turned in and took profits on many of the long lines they had. Trading at the close was of moderate vol-ume, decidedly irregular and somewhat un-der the high price for the day on the ma-jority of the list.
